New home for Tom Cunningham

Cooper Communications, Inc., a Woodland Hills public relations firm, contributed to this story.

Late in April, California first lady Gayle Wilson and volunteers from the Sacramento chapter of "Christmas in April" showed up at the Smilax Ave. residence of Thomas Cunningham to deliver a surprise.

Cunningham, 70 years old and legally blind, had been chosen by the "Christmas in April" charity organization -- and specifically selected for sponsorship by Governor and Mrs. Wilson -- to receive a badly needed renovation on his home.

Left with eye problems and partial paralysis from a stroke ten years ago, Cunningham was unable to keep up with maintenance chores on the house, and did not have the means to hire help.

So volunteers from Christmas in April chipped in, descending on the Smilax Ave. home for what they thought would be a major overhaul of its electrical system and roof.

Unfortunately, they learned that the house was in worse shape than they thought. It would need to be not just renovated, but replaced.

Stepping outside the normal boundaries of the "Christmas in April" operations, volunteers set about looking for a solution. And on June 14, Cunningham's residence was levelled in preparation to bring in that solution -- a "manufactured home" delivered with the assistance of the California Department of Housing and Community Development, the governor's office, "Christmas in April" and the California Manufactured Housing Institute, which contributed $25,000 to bridge the gap between costs and available financing.

Also participating was Fleetwood Homes of Woodland, which provided the manufactured home at its own cost.

The new three bedroom, two bathroom home was delivered and assembled June 30.

On July 26, project participants, volunteers and neighbors joined Cunningham to celebrate his move into the home (and his 71st birthday) with a block party.

"This project is a perfect example of how the public and private sectors can work together to improve our communities," said Richard E. Mallory, Director of the Dept. of Housing and Community Development. "Thanks to the generosity of the California Manufactured Housing Institute and its member organizations, working in conjunction with the Governor's Office and our agency, and volunteers from Christmas in April, not only will Tom Cunningham be able to live out his remaining years in a safe and comfortable home, but his neighborhood has been enhanced with this attractive addition."

The new home sits at 520 Smilax Ave.

Suspect located -- in jail in Sacramento

Lo Choi Saelee, the 22-year old accused gunman in a shooting that wounded a Grocery Outlet employee in West Sacramento on May 6, was arrested in July 4 in Sacramento on unrelated charges and will be turned over to Yolo County authorities after serving his Sacramento jail time, said Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department.

Saelee was listed as wanted by local police last week after apparently skipping bail on attempted murder charges related to the Grocery Outlet case, even though he was already in custody. A communication gap between law enforcement authorities in Sacramento and West Sacramento kept some local police unaware Saelee was in custody.

Further details on Saelee's Sacramento arrest were not available.

"We're still waiting on Sacramento's arrest report," said Lt. Farmer. "We've got a hold on him and they have our warrant (for Saelee in Yolo County)."

The shooting in West Sacramento occurred during a holdup attempt. The wounded employee is recovering from his injuries.

Local man sought in rape of 15-year old

By Steve Marschke

A 21-year old West Sacramento is being sought by police in connection with the reported rape of a 15-year old West Sacramento girl.

"It occurred at the Broderick Boat Ramp," said Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. "Apparently, she had known this guy about two weeks, and he offered her a ride and drove her to the boat ramp and forced himself on her. He hasn't been found at his residence and we haven't been able to locate him."

The suspect is identified as Rafael Garcia. The girl's name is being withheld due to her age and because she is the apparent victim of a sexual assault.

Anyone with information on Garcia's whereabouts is asked to call the police department, 372-2461, extension 240. Detective Duckett is in charge of the investigation.

Riverside improvements slated to begin

■ Promenade on top of the levee, amphitheater, public plazas are part of plans for riverfront north of Tower Bridge

By Steve Marschke

With a $93,000 state grant in hand and another $330,000 applied for, West Sacramento officials are preparing to start major work in creating public facilities along the city's Broderick neighborhood riverfront.

"The entire riverfront plan is about a $3 million dollar project," said Les Bowman of the city redevelopment agency.

The plan includes a walkway along the top of the levee, an interim trail near the riverfront, improvements at the Broderick Boat Ramp, and various plazas.

Also in the works is an amphitheater built into the levee's side and facing the Sacramento river, where future citizens will be able to sit on concrete steps and watch on-stage events, with the river and Old Sacramento as a backdrop. That amphitheater bears the working name of "The Grand Staircase," said Bowman, who estimated it might seat around a thousand people.

"It's a series of steps that leads from the top of the levee to the water below," said Bowman. The seating area will be located about halfway between the Tower and I St. bridges.

The $93,000 grant from the state's Department of Boating and Waterways will help pay for improvements to the boat ramp's facilities, including a new restroom with snack bar, new boarding docks, landscaping, irrigation and paving.

"What we want to build this year is the promenade from the Tower Bridge to just north of the Money Store, which is about 40 percent of the entire promenade," Bowman said. "There will be a small entry plaza near the Money Store to take advantage of 27 public parking places in the Money Store's garage."

The Money Store's headquarters -- the pyramid-shaped structure now under construction on the waterfront -- is West Sacramento's first taker among planned development along this waterfront. When built, it will instantly become the city's largest employer.

But the public is still guaranteed access to the riverfront, and the parks department's master plan calls for riverfront pathways to maintain that access.

West Sac cop will be among candidates for Yolo Sheriff's post

Two candidates have stepped into the contest for the Yolo County Sheriff/Coroner's post most recently filled by West Sacramento resident Bob Martinez, who has resigned.

Ed Prieto, a Davis resident who is a California Highway Patrol Commander assigned to the Woodland area, announced his candidacy for sheriff on July 25.

Prieto is a 30-year C.H.P. veteran.

His campaign announces that Prieto has the support of former Yolo County Supervisor Betsy Marchand, former sheriff Martinez, current supervisors Freddie Oakley and Dave Rosenburg, and other local officials.

Prieto's wife, Mona, is a C.H.P. lieutenant.

More recently John F. Laugenour, a reserve officer with the West Sacramento Police Department, has announced his own candidacy for the sheriff/coroner position.

Laugenour is a fifth generation Yolo County family, his campaign states. He is involved in a private security-related firm and farming interests, and is active in several Woodland and Yolo County civic organizations.

Laugenour has served as a reserve Yolo sheriff's deputy, a Winters police officer, and a West Sacramento Police Officer (1987-94, including Officer of the Year honors 1990). He remains a reserve officer with the West Sacramento police.

Chamber scholarship winners

From the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce

Local high school students Jennifer Newkirk and Maria Vela have been chosen to receive continuing education scholarships from the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce. Each will receive $500 to assist them in purchasing books and supplies to begin their college education journey.

Newkirk is a graduate of River City High School, where she made the school honor roll as a freshman, sophomore, junior and senior. She has her sights on earning a degree in Political Science at Sacramento State University as a preliminary step in her quest to become a business or corporate attorney in California.

Maria Vela is a graduate of Yolo Continuation High School where she excelled in music. Out of thousands of students who applied to study music at the Institute of the Arts in Southern California, Vela was one of a handful of musically talented people who made the grade and was chosen to attend classes.

She will begin her local college endeavors at Sacramento City College and focus on music in hopes of someday going into business in the music industry.

Each year scholarship winners are presented with $250 after proof of college or trade school registration and $250 upon submittal of their first semester grades.

New subscription rates

For the past six years, the News-Ledger has held its subscription prices steady despite several postal rate increases and a significant increase in the cost of newsprint over the same period.

These rates, alas, now cry out for adjustment.

New subscription rates, effective immediately, will be $20 per year for delivery anywhere within Yolo County, including West Sacramento, and $25 per year anywhere else in the Unites States. These rates are still among the lowest available for any weekly newspaper.

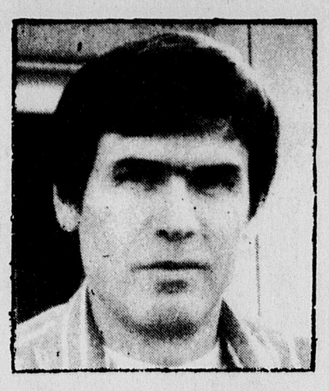

The new rates will be applicable for new subscribers. Current subscribers will be charged the new rate only when their current subscriptions become due. Subscription renewal notices will include the new price information.

Thank you for your continued readership. . . and watch for some exciting changes in these pages during the balance of 1997!

Never tell your family you think you saw a UFO

Editor's Note: Daryl is on vacation through August. Here is one of his favorite old columns:

By Daryl Fisher

I wheeled my pickup truck up into my driveway, jumped out of the driver's seat, slammed the door shut and raced into my house. Out of breath, I blurted out, "Hey, you guys aren't going to believe what I just saw!"

My wife, sons and daughter, who were sprawled out in their favorite chairs throughout the living room, didn't even bother to look up from the TV show they were watching. "Hey," I repeated, "no kidding, I just saw something absolutely unbelievable!"

"And what might that be, dear?" my wife finally asked, her eyes still glued to the TV.

"Well," I said, suddenly realizing that I was probably going to sound like a complete idiot, "I think I just saw a space ship of some kind, you know, one of those UFO's."

"What?" asked my oldest son Ty, smiling at his brother Paul and slowly shaking his head.

"I'm serious," I said.

"Get out of here," said my obviously disbelieving daughter. "You didn't see no unidentified flying object."

"But I really think I might have."

"Where?"

"Up on the River Road."

"When?"

"Just about ten minutes ago."

"But what would a space ship be doing in West Sacramento?" asked Paul with a puzzled expression.

"Yeah," said Ty with a smile, "aren't they supposed to be out looking for intelligent life?"

"I'm serious," I said. "Whatever it was, it sure wasn't a plane or a helicopter or anything like that. And it just appeared out of nowhere, hovered high over the river for a few seconds, then darted off, real fast. One second it was there, and the next thing I knew, it was gone."

"What'd it look like?" asked my daughter.

"Well, I didn't get that good of a look at it because it was pretty high up, but it was perfectly round and surrounded by this bright blue light. I don't think it had any windows or anything, but it seemed like it was spinning real fast as it hovered."

Anyway, no matter how hard I tried, I wasn't able to convince any of my beloved family members that I had actually seen a UFO. After about a fifteen minute discussion, the general consensus seemed to be that I just had aliens on the brain because of a Star Trek movie we had recently rented.

Later that night, still unable to totally dismiss what I thought I had seen, I suddenly recalled a little chat I had some twenty-five years earlier with one of my more colorful fraternity brothers. His name was Bruce and he was a little weird to begin with, and I can never remember having a conversation with him when he was completely sober and drug-free, but he was absolutely convinced that a gang of four-foot-high aliens had once kidnapped him from earth and taken him up to their space ship where they apparently gave him a complicated battery of physical and psychological tests.

"What kind of tests?" I asked him.

"That part I don't remember too well," he explained, "except that they kept flashing all these different colored lights in front of my eyes and poking me all over with their cold little bony fingers."

"What did they look like?" I asked him.

"Well, they all had huge bald heads, bulging green eyes, really skinny legs and the ugliest feet I have ever seen. And none of them were wearing any clothes."

"Not even the girls?" I asked from my earthly perspective.

"To tell you the truth," he said, "I couldn't really tell which ones were the boys and which ones were the girls."

"How come?"

"Because none of them had any body parts to speak of."

"You're kidding?" I asked in amazement. "No body parts?"

"Nope," said Bruce, "not that I could tell, anyway. In fact, I even asked one of them about that."

"What'd he say?"

"Well," answered Bruce, "he, or she, didn't really say anything, but all of a sudden the answer was right there in my head. Now is that a neat way to communicate or what?"

"Really? They just put the answer right in your

The thing about NFL stars is that they typically keep to their own universe. When they do drop into our more immediate space, it's not without good cause.

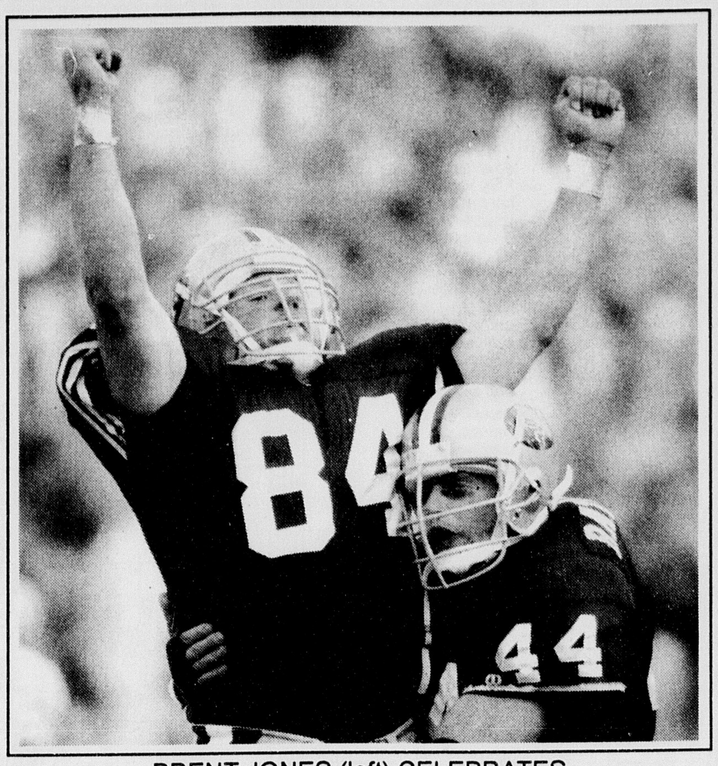

Ladies and gentlemen, presenting Brent Jones and a very good cause: the youth of West Sacramento. The 49ers' four-time Pro Bowler will be dropping into town on August 8 to speak and sign autographs at the S'Mile Builder Luncheon, a benefit for the proposed Second Mile teen center.

Jones, heading into his 12th NFL season, leapt at the opportunity to make a benefit appearance after he learned about efforts to bring a teen center for high schoolers to West Sacramento.

"That kind of thing is just so important for kids," Jones said last week. "I know there's so many problems with drugs and gangs. I want to help out any way I can."

Jones will be coming to West Sac directly from the Sierra College practice fields in Rocklin, where the 49ers are conducting training camp through August 14. His appearance comes one day before the team plays its second exhibition game of the season, against the Seattle Seahawks at 3Com Park on August 9.

"Normally I don't do (appearances) during camp, but this one works out well," Jones said.

Long established as one of the premiere tight ends to ever play the game, Jones has collected three Super Bowl rings in San Francisco and been a favorite target of quarterbacks Joe Montana and Steve Young.

He has averaged 47.3 catches per season since breaking in as a starter in 1989, and needs only 12 more receptions to become the fifth player and first tight end in team history to record 400 career catches.

Don't look back, Giants, the Dodger blue is catching up to you!

The Giants' (58-48) six game lead at the All Star break is down to 1 1/2 games over the Dodgers (56-49) and only 5 1/2 games over the red hot San Diego Padres (52-53), who have won 13 of their last 17 games. The Giants will have a couple of days off this week, and believe me, they'll need it after the seven hour and 21 minute doubleheader last Sunday against the Pirates.

The Giants and Pirates split their doubleheader, but the first game went 13 innings and Barry Bonds will need some rest after playing all 22 innings.

The N.Y. Mets come to town for a two-game series and after a day off on Thursday, the Giants head to Cincinnati for a big four game series. The trading deadline is July 31 and the Giants and A's are still shopping for pitching. Yes, the A's are still talking about breaking up the Bash Brothers. Together, Canseco and McGwire have hit 55 home runs and driven in 146 runs.

The N.F.L. was off and running last Saturday with the Vikings beating the Seahawks 28-25 in the first exhibition game of the season. The 49ers' first pre-season game is on Saturday at 7 p.m. in San Diego against the Chargers, while the Raiders open up pre-season against the 'Boys in Dallas, with a 5 p.m. game on Sunday night.

One week after Detroit shows Barry Sanders the money, two other teams dig deep into their wallets and show their quarterbacks some serious dollars. The Packers signed MVP Brett Farve to a seven year deal worth $47.25 million, or an average of $6.75 million a year!

Jacksonville's QB Mark Brunell, who was Farve's backup two years ago in Green Bay, signed a five year deal that makes him one of the NFL's highest paid players. The 26-year old's new contract will pay him $30.5 million and includes a $10 million signing bonus. The 49ers, who are trying to restructure Steve Young's contract, are going to have to top this craziness.

See ya next week!

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Shooting the messenger

During the past couple of weeks, a spirited discussion took place on this page about a matter which, in the big picture, didn't mean a lot, but which sure tugged at a lot of heart strings.

A local woman had lost the family dog. Apparently panic-stricken by the sound of fireworks being (illegally) shot off nearby, the animal leaped a fence and accidentally hanged itself by its tether. The woman blamed the local veterinary hospital, which had refused to prescribe tranquilizers to the animal in advance of the Fourth of July celebration, without first examining the dog.

Westside Veterinary Hospital, the facility in question, responded the next week, explaining that it was prohibited from releasing prescription drugs without a recent physical examination of the animal patient. In part, the law is designed to make sure vets don't prescribe drugs to an animal which, for some physical reason, can't handle the drug. The answer makes perfect sense.

But while the vet's office was responding, a number of other citizens called the News-Ledger and wrote in on the same issue at the same time, and their responses were interesting.

Two or three callers took the News-Ledger itself to task for the "article" criticizing Westside and "not telling the whole story." What these callers did not understand was that the "article" was a "letter to the editor," and as such was an expression of personal opinion. As long as that opinion is in reasonably good taste, does not contain libelous accusations, and includes matter the News-Ledger believes to be of local public interest, it may find a home on this page.

In other words, don't get mad at the newspaper because it prints an opinion you disagree with. (You can still go ahead and get mad if the newspaper handles either news or opinion items in an irresponsible way.)

The other aspect of this situation was the general tone of response to the woman who lost her pet. Each of the people who called or wrote was very angry that the veterinarians had been blamed, and yet went out of their way to express sympathy for the loss of the family pet. While expressing their opposition to the dog owner's views, these local citizens appeared to try to control their words to avoid causing more grief to the dog owner.

In the middle of a bad situation, this restraint was conspicuous. Sometimes people will surprise you with the amount of dignity and compassion they possess.

Guest commentary:

Leaking petroleum tanks require public's vigilance

From Anna Hopkins Virbick, Director
Office of Underground Storage Tanks
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

Underground tanks used to store gasoline or hazardous chemicals can leak their contents into the environment. To date, over 325,000 underground storage tanks (USTs) have leaked, in many cases contaminating underground sources of drinking water. That's a problem when you consider that half of all Americans get their drinking water from underground sources.

Fumes from leaking tanks can also cause fires or explosions. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that the total number of leaking USTs could exceed 400,000 in the next several years.

Federal regulations now require tank owners to use a method of leak detection and, by December 1998, to replace, upgrade, or close older tanks that are likely to leak.

You can help protect your community. Ask your local service stations if their tanks meet all environmental requirements. And if you see, smell or taste gasoline where it shouldn't be, call the fire department or state environmental agency. If you don't know the number, call the U.S. EPA's toll-free Hotline at (800) 424-9346.

Underground storage tanks are buried beneath cities and towns all across America. They are everywhere, not just at gas stations but also at non-marketing facilities such as state and local government motor pools that use tanks to fuel school buses, emergency vehicles, or highway maintenance equipment. They are at marinas, airports, military bases, and golf courses. EPA estimates that one million federally regulated underground storage tanks are currently buried at over 370,000 sites nationwide.

Remember, USTs may be hidden -- but if they leak gasoline or other harmful chemicals, their negative effects can be very visible.

For information about the UST program in California, call (916) 227-4313.

Prepare for disaster

Summer is here, and right behind it...El Nino. West Sacramento is well protected as shown by last year's storm tales from other cities. We did have a "boil," but the city made sure it was fixed and watched.

School 2x2 meetings discussed an evacuation plan which Yolo County used to have in existence. However, our city is in the process of studying "possibilities" so that we will know how to deal with any problem the best way.

I'm bringing this up, to make sure that they get it done before the season starts. Then there will be time to drill the children at school, families to talk about it, and printed material and Sonic Cable to inform everyone on the different options open to them.

Disaster Preparation Programs are great deterrents for potential problems. Why not know what you are going to do, so that there is no panic or excessive worry. There will always be the people who refuse to take responsibility until its too late. But, if many people act prudently, like Yuba city employees did last year, then last minute rush is not catapulted into bedlam.

Please ask your children's teachers what there specific directions are in case of a disaster from storm damage or a levee break. There is never any harm in the being prepared. The boy scouts formed an entire organization on the principle. I'd be satisfied if there was proof that a scout was at work designing a plan.

Marna: grand jury findings

Yolo "appears" to have a system that promotes favoritism and abuse, in appointing legal counsel. Legal counsel says that it's because the Board of Supervisors treats them like second-class citizens. Well, there's a reason to do a bad job and be unethical, especially if you are representing a county. It must benefit someone to allow Yolo County to be "questionably adequate" or someone would have interfered by now.

Yolo Legal Counsel seems to have strange and unfair procedures (although no one seems to be able to find those procedures), when it comes to allowing just "any" lawyer to apply for a job. I guess you need a noted conflict-of-interest so you can be manipulated; or in Yolo you need to be relative of a person who already has a job in the city, county or state. You must have to pass a loyalty test, showing you will do "whatever" your boss says in order to get a job. I hear that scenario works in W.S.

Yolo D.A. has had a change over the last few years, but the public still seems to have problems getting help or answers to things. (Remember, it took two years to get the GJR released to the public, even when we asked for it. They wanted to know why you wanted one, and even then you had a hard time getting a copy.) The office isn't interested in why the County Clerk can't run an election without problems. Or, why the County Clerk has deceased people on the election rolls, when the law says those names should be taken off in 30 days. Or, why he's charging the state for that extra postage, etc., based on the REAL number of people at the time of budgeting, funding, etc.

Defenders' office has a staff but does little work according to GJR. Deputy Public Defender over juveniles is overworked (evidenced by front page article on youth who was released even though he already had fled once). They are now starting a mentoring program to make it easy for the children who will potentially cause problems to get first dibs at jobs. Says research materials are lacking. Now in the attorney's world of business, research is done by a contracting firm or paralegal firm who does it for a living and cheaply, allowing lawyers more time to do their jobs. But that would be asking for more production, which the GJR says is lacking also.

Procedures, policies, rules, etc., are virtually non-existent. This makes it easy to use the "woops" word, or the melodramatic apology when they get caught. If you don't put it in print, you don't have to be responsible for it. Management gives staff no feedback. So, they must be promoting taxpayer assisted incompetence, and GJR's referral to them as "dysfunctional" was kind. It's been two years since GJR asked for changes and it is the same or worse.

Here's the punchline: "Comments" section, following 15 pages of inadequacies and questionable procedures or the lack thereof, says that everything is

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento river registered 4 feet 2 inches, United States gauge at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday.

Judge and Mrs. Barry are expected home Saturday from Richardson Springs, where they have been having a vacation during the past two weeks. From reports received by their relatives the Judge seems to be feeling like a two-year-old. Mrs. Barry is having a hard time to hold him down. Not a case has come before his court in the two weeks that he has been gone and it would seem as if all the people at the right side of the river are behaving themselves just as well as they know how because of his absence.

For the celebration of the Fourth, the boys and girls of Washington kicked up a great deal of noise, because there was no restriction on the sale or purchase of fireworks on the Yolo side of the river. Nevertheless, there was not a single fire alarm turned in, not even for a grass fire during the celebration of the Fourth. The volunteer firemen were looking for trouble and were prepared to meet it, but the good Lord was with His own people on this occasion like he was with the chosen disciples in the desert. The noise made on the Washington side of the river attracted many Sacramento youngsters who crossed the bridge in an effort to get away from the surveillance of the ever watchful copper.

Ed. Wilson and wife were visitors from Lodi during the past week, staying with friends around Washington for several days. They are very much pleased with the San Joaquin grape growing district, but nevertheless yearn to get back to old friends once in a while.

The delayed honeymoon promised Tom Robinson materialized last Sunday, when his boss, George Beale, permitted him to take a two weeks' vacation with his bride. Tom was overanxious to get away and took advantage of the occasion to have a real honeymoon following his wedding of two weeks ago. Bride and groom are now at the seaside at Santa Cruz.

Miss Eva Thornton of Richmond is stopping at the home of Mrs. Selma Forrett for the past two weeks and will continue to remain here for some time to come. Miss Thornton was formerly a resident of Washington for some time, and like all the other old residents wants to get back occasionally to renew acquaintances.

Mrs. W. Norton, with her boys Billie and Frank, left last Monday to spend a month or more with relatives in Squirrel, Idaho. This yearly visit is customary with the Norton family.

Mrs. Clara Stockton Berry has been at the home of her parents during the past two weeks. She expects to stay with her mother for two or three weeks more.

Mrs. B. Moss, who has been seriously ill during the past two weeks, was greatly recovered yesterday but is still confined to her home and under the care of a practical nurse. Mrs. Moss's sick spells come so seldom that her friends become alarmed very easily, although personally she pays very little attention to them, but on this occasion was forced to remain in her home.

Mrs. Homer Lee and family went to Bodega Bay last Sunday to remain for several days of this week and probably next week. In the meantime, Homer is taking care of the home and growls a good deal between meals. He claims that he is always happiest when there is something good on the table, but claims he is a poor hand at getting those good things on the table.

Earl Pankost of Oakland has returned to his home after making a visit with relatives here.

Miss Alice Butters of East Sacramento has come to Washington to make an extended visit with Mrs. Herman Garber.

Bert Berry has returned to Richmond after spending a few days visiting with his family.

Paul Smith of Los Angeles is visiting with his sisters here, the Mesdames Van Baaren.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Arey have returned to Oakland after a short visit here.

Seth Barry, Jr., has been seriously ill with the measles and whooping cough for some time, but is reported improving.

G. Johnson's barge is being repaired by Herman Garber following damages to the boat on a recent trip just after a new engine was installed in the barge.

Miss Josephine Virgilie and Blair Manchester spent the Fourth of July holiday in Roseville.

Mrs. M. Ferris and Mrs. C. Maderia of Berkeley spent the Fourth of July with relatives here. They are the sisters of H. M. Eugene.

Mrs. H. B. Buckingham has returned from a visit in Santa Rosa and brought with her on her return her granddaughter, Gene, and her daughter, Mrs. Bert Erwin, who will spend several weeks with her.

P. A. Hart and son, Fred, who have been at Knights Landing for the past two weeks, spent the week-end here, and have returned, accompanied by Mrs. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Clifford, Miss Viola Clifford, Miss Leona Thatcher and Bud Thatcher.

Miss Georgia Mathena has returned home after a two weeks' vacation spent in Seattle.

J. S. Lear and W. Parks have come from Lamoine to spend the Fourth of July in Washington.

Paul Dupzyk has returned from a week-end trip spent in the high Sierras.

Lawrence Speicher is here from Susanville for the Fourth of July holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Arey and Leo Brash and family came up from Oakland for a visit at the home of Mrs. Frank De Riso.

Mr. and Mrs. William Russell have gone to Oregon for a stay of several months.

Lawrence Ortiz, son of F. Ortiz, is improved after an illness.

INTERESTING TRIP TO CANADA MADE BY MOSS AND BEALE

Returning from Vancouver, Victoria and other towns in British Columbia last Sunday night, Ed. Moss and F. Beale are relating their experiences on the trip to many friends in and around Washington.

The trip was made in a Ford roadster with no camping outfit, but Moss and Beale found pleasure in looking over the various localities where they stopped, and incidentally they stopped in the best hotels along the road.

They declare that business conditions in this locality are as good, if not better, than in any town they had visited, and they came home rejoicing in the fact that conditions here were a little above the average.

In Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Salem, Albany, Roseburg, Eugene and Grants Pass they found the storekeepers prosperous, but nevertheless inclined to be somewhat pessimistic.

In Canada they found a different state of affairs. Prosperity is the general rule in the north and it is estimated, they claim, that if present conditions continue to prevail, Canada will be just as prosperous a country as the United States is today.

Canadians are paying off all their war debts through revenue brought to the various provincial governments from taxation collected on liquors transported to the United States.

The people, on this account, are extremely jubilant and are happy in the thought that the United States is now a sucker nation contributing largely to the support of countries outside her borders.

Whiskey may not be obtained in the province of British Columbia for consumption in clubs, hotels or other places of social gatherings. Whiskey may be consumed in the home after a man has secured a government permit to buy it.

But registration at any hotel in the province entitles the visitor in Canada to secure all the beer and wine he wants in the clubroom of the hotel.

Nearly any resident of a Canadian town will lend his permit to a stranger so that the stranger can buy from government depots anything he wants in the way of intoxicating liquor, although that permit may have cost him $5.00.

The Canadian citizen is glad to see the stranger patronize the products of his country, thus adding revenue to the treasury of the province.

Moss and Beale are very temperate men, especially since prohibition became a law of the United States. They didn't buy any beer in Canada, more because of their patriotic ideals than because they didn't want the goods.

They spent several days touring in Canada, but the principal cities they visited were Vancouver and Victoria.

They didn't return with any goods on their persons or in their possession, but nevertheless they were stopped several times on the road because of the new and odoriferous fragrance permeating the air in the neighborhood of their Ford.

They claim the roads are good the greater part of the way except that between Salem and Portland, which is under construction, necessitating several tough detours that vex the life of tourists and travelers.

They were gone two weeks and came home greatly benefitted in health and still convinced that prohibition is a fool law of the United States that must soon be routed by the sensible methods governing the distribution of alcoholic liquors in a neighboring country.

LEE LEE, ACCUSED DOPE PEDDLER, DISCHARGED BY JURY

Woodland, June 30.—Lee Lee, Washington Chinaman accused of having narcotics in his possession, was freed yesterday by a jury in Superior Judge Anderson's court, after a deliberation of about a half hour.

Attorney John Laugenour, assisted by Attorney French of Sacramento, handled the defense for the Chinaman.

In the absence of Chester Gannon, attorney for the State Board of Health, District Attorney Kern was forced to prosecute, not having the health attorney's special knowledge of the offense.

The Chinaman was arrested in Washington a couple of weeks ago, and held to answer in the Justice Court of that place, Justice Harrison sitting for Judge Barry.

The jury trying the case was as follows: J. H. Armfield, George Dalton, T. C. Worley, G. E. Schlosser, Wm. Roach, J. C. Shellhammer, J. Murphy, Fred Snavely, G. L. Epperson, Hugh Cave, C. R. Ruppert and Fred Burmer.

ROAD BUILDING STARTED ON SECTION LEADING TO RIVERVIEW

The Hart Construction Company of Gerber has several teams at work on the roadway between the Catholic Church in West Sacramento and Riverview on the Sacramento river. Regrading is being done on this section of road of over two miles, after which a concrete roadway will be laid by the contractor.

The specifications governing show that the road will be of six inches in depth at the center or highest point of the road, while at the edges it will be seven inches.

A surfacing of softer material than concrete will be laid as soon as the concreting is finished.

The same contractors have in hand a contract for refinishing of the road on Jefferson Boulevard between the Catholic Church and the Bryan home, near the main central canal, or what was formerly known as the soil laboratory.

This section of road is to be repaired first by the filling of all low places and chuckholes in the broken concrete and on top of this is to be laid a surfacing of concrete three inches in thickness.

It was more or less of a conundrum for a considerable time as to how this section should be treated in order to furnish a practical roadway that would hold up under the great traffic to which it is subjected.

That roadway on Jefferson Boulevard was laid about nine years ago. It has become rutted and holed to a great extent with no repairs being made at any time during its existence. As a consequence it is an eyesore at the present time, dangerous alike to man and beast, and any change for betterment will be welcomed by the farmers of the West Sacramento District as well as the farmers of the Lisbon District and the taxpayers of the Holland District.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN IS NOW PHYSICIAN AT WOODLAND SANITARIUM

Woodland, June 29.—Ever increasing the efficiency of the professional staff of the Woodland Sanitarium, another addition is to be made to the force of doctors and specialists now making it one of the finest institutions of the kind in the State. On July 1 next Dr. James E. Harbinson of the University of California medical corps, will join the sanitarium staff, to devote his entire time to internal medicines, as contradistinguished from surgery, general practice, obstetrics and the like.

Dr. Harbinson is a Sacramento man, but has been for the past two years connected with the University of California hospital at San Francisco. He comes highly recommended and is skilled in the medical specialty which he undertakes in Woodland. He will join the clinic here next week.

ALFALFA GROWERS ARE BEHIND IN PRODUCTION

Farmers of the West Sacramento district who grow alfalfa claim to be one crop behind so far this year.

For this delay or discrepancy they offer no remedy and blame it on the condition of the weather which prevailed up until about the end of June.

The first crop cut by all the farmers was very heavy and very productive but the second crop did not start its growth as it has usually done in years past immediately after the first cutting.

It is only now that most of the farmers of the district are starting to cut the second crop of alfalfa, when that crop according to precedent should be already harvested and a third crop on the way.

Usually six crops of alfalfa are cut in this district without irrigation, but there are many who believe that only five crops can be harvested this year.

WEST SACRAMENTO BOOKS READY FOR REORGANIZATION BODY

The newly elected trustees of Reclamation District 900 have made demand on the old board for the books of the district with the idea of having them audited so as a first knowledge of the financial condition of the district may be obtained.

The trustees are J. Peltier, Sam Harbinson and A. F. Turner. They were elected on June 20th by a great majority over the old trustees, J. H. Glide, F. E. Miller and G. Borchers.

The attorney for the new trustees, C. F. Metteer, has made demand for the books and has been advised that they may be at his disposal any time within the next few days.

Although some trouble was expected in relation to this matter, it appears now that the old board has no objection to delivering over to the newly elected trustees the necessary documents.

Another meeting of the property owners in the district is expected to be called by the chairman, G. M. Jones, as soon as an audit of the books has been made.

OLD TIME RESIDENT OF WASHINGTON DIES IN SACRAMENTO

Last Saturday, June 30th, at her home in Sacramento, Mrs. Mary A. Moddison died following a short sickness.

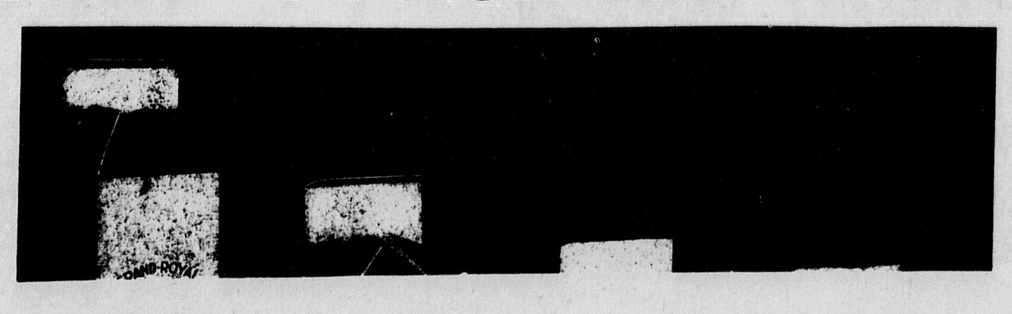

Mrs. Moddison was a resident of West Sacramento for many years, occupying with her husband what was formerly known as the Kripp ranch but now a part of the headquarters of the West Sacramento Company.

Mrs. Moddison was a very religious woman, devoting a great part of her time to her religion. She was a native of Canada, 64 years of age and a resident of this section and Sacramento for forty years.

She is survived by her husband, Henry S. Moddison, and the following children: Henry C. and R. I. Moddison, Mrs. J. S. McAdoo and Mrs. R. A. Gunther.

Veterans Post 8762 elects new leaders

West Sacramento VFW and Auxiliary new command members Gary McReynolds commander, and Floy Gleason, president, were installed into office officially on July 1. Their terms will expire on June 30, 1998.

Gary is a lifetime citizen of West Sacramento, having graduated from James Marshall High School. Floy was previously president of the command, in 1995. There are some big changes anticipated for the coming year, and Gary and Floy look forward to the challenge. Meeting nights are every second Wednesday of the month, at 7 p.m.

fine and all are doing a good job. Now, since when is it the duty of the Jury Commissioner to add his little perspective or adjectives to the Grand Jury's findings, or who decided to add that remark, since the majority of people will flip to the summary comment for a reader's digest version. Is this manipulation of facts or just courtesy? I don't want someone forming my opinions for me, I'm very opinionated without any help, you may have noticed. Watching the news nowadays, you can hardly get information without someone telling you how to feel, look, think and spend. Information in a pure form is a scarce commodity.

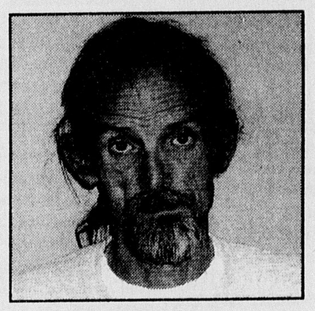

If you think I'm hard on Yolo, you should see the Sacramento GJR, because it reads like a book on the dumbing down of America. There is so much that is not given or said to the Grand Jury that the report seems like less than a "gesture."

"Yeah. Apparently they don't need to reproduce, because they live forever, so they've evolved beyond the need for body parts."

"Evolved to what?"

"Now that's a real good question. I'm afraid they didn't put that answer into my head. But I distinctly remember getting the feeling they just weren't very impressed with the human body, especially mine. They kept rotating those big green eyes of theirs to the side when they were taking off my clothes -- almost as if they couldn't stand to look at me -- and I kind of took it personal at first, but you know, now that I've had some time to think about it, I wouldn't be a bit surprised if we're the only creatures left in the whole universe who are still stuck with all these damn body parts."

As I sat there trying with great difficulty to contemplate life without body parts, especially female body parts, my fraternity brother seemed to sense my deep and uniquely human concern and said, "Yeah, I'd bet just about anything that body parts are really rare and not very important once you get off this stupid planet of ours."

"You really think so?" I asked, still not quite capable of grasping the concept.

And then, almost as he had read my mind, he nodded his head and said, "But you know, it does kind of make you wonder why those poor little dudes would even bother to get up in the mornings, doesn't it?"
